Public: Eric Heiser and Mark Cristofalo build beautiful homes that elicit desire and joy. Their newest offering, Villa Valdez, showcases their expression of revival architecture in a prized Country Club West location. The inspiration for Villa Valdez began with a remarkable set of antique Moroccan stone grills. These wonderful grills have been placed within the tile capped plaster walls that wrap the property. With subtle nods to this Moroccan influence, the home is built with materials of antiquity that are gently integrated with a quiet, subtle minimalism. Classic ideas viewed through a contemporary lens - welcome to Villa Valdez.
